Behco, Inc. has been a stocking distributor of both pneumatic and hydraulic components since 1964. However, the change to new and aggressive ownership in 1987 initiated the change from simply providing components to a full service pneumatic, hydraulic, lubrication, motion control and automation distributor and integrator with in-house engineering and manufacturing capabilities. Since 2006 Behco has been a division of H&P Technologies, a diversified distributor and service and repair company.

Behco has four distinct product groups; Pneumatics & Fluid Control, Industrial Hydraulics & Lubrication, Motion Control & Automation and Mobile Products. This brochure is to highlight the products and services that are part of the Mobile Products Group.

We have enjoyed enviable growth over the years and have focused on continued improvement in all aspects of the company and staying abreast of technological changes in both products and applications. The customer truly comes first at Behco and we are extremely thankful for the opportunities that our customers provide us.

From basic component sales to customized engineered solutions, Behco can and does serve our customers as a valued partner through our varied product offerings and engineering capabilities.
